Management Commentary

The trust outperformed the benchmark in January. Not holding Capita, the UK outsourcing company, added to relative performance as the firm warned about a slowdown in work, poor cash flow impacting its ability to pay a dividend, and the need for a rights issue to support the balance sheet. Our holding in Sophos, the cyber security company, was another significant contributor to performance. On the negative side, Card Factory shares were weak following lower margin growth, leading to concerns around the sustainability of its special dividend. Following a very strong year for mid cap in 2017, 2018 has started in a weaker fashion but in line with other equity markets globally. We continue to believe that UK mid and small cap companies offer good prospects for long-term capital growth and income.

- This trust may utilise gearing (borrowing) which will exaggerate market movements both up and down.
- This trust may also invest in smaller companies which may increase its risk profile.
- The share price may trade at a discount to the Net Asset Value of the company.
- The single market in which the Trust primarily invests, in this case the UK, may be subject to particular political and economic risks and, as a result, the trust may be more volatile than more broadly diversified trusts.
- Companies listed on AIM tend to be smaller and early stage companies and may carry greater risks than an investment in a company with a full listing on the London Stock Exchange.
