

JPMorgan Brazil Investment Trust plc

Monthly Update as at 31 May 2018

Management Commentary

Stock selection in the industrials space added to relative performance in February. The positive result was driven by our lack of exposure to CCR, a toll road operator, whose share price struggled on bribery allegations. The portfolio's position in MercadoLibre, the region's leading e-commerce company, added value thanks to strong top-line results. On the downside, the trust's overweight to Lojas Renner, a leading department store retailer, detracted most as results came in softer than expected. Also weighing on performance was our exposure to Fleury, a healthcare name that operates in the clinical laboratory business. The stock fell despite the lack of any important newsflow during the month. We believe it will be a volatile year in Brazil, driven by both internal and external factors. Our focus will remain on finding well-run companies that can deliver over the long term regardless of the short-term issues the economy may face.

SECTOR BREAKDOWN AS AT 31 MAY 2018 ^F

The Trust is an actively managed portfolio, holdings, sector weights, allocations and leverage, as applicable are subject to change at the discretion of the Investment Manager without notice.

RISK INFORMATION

- Exchange rate changes may cause the value of underlying overseas investments to go down as well as up.
- Investments in emerging markets may involve a higher element of risk due to political and economic instability and underdeveloped markets and systems. Shares may also be traded less frequently than those on established markets. This means that there may be difficulty in both buying and selling shares and individual share prices may be subject to short-term price fluctuations.
- External factors may cause an entire asset class to decline in value. Prices and values of all shares or all bonds could decline at the same time, or fluctuate in response to the performance of individual companies and general market conditions.
- This trust may utilise gearing (borrowing) which will exaggerate market movements both up and down.
- This trust may also invest in smaller companies which may increase its risk profile.
- The share price may trade at a discount to the Net Asset Value of the company.
- The single market in which the Trust primarily invests, in this case Brazil, may be subject to particular political and economic risks and, as a result, the trust may be more volatile than more broadly diversified trusts.
- Investors should be aware that there is a Brazilian Presidential Decree in force, as amended from time to time, detailing the current IOF tax rate (Tax on Financial Operations), that applies to foreign exchange inflows and outflows. The application of the IOF tax may reduce the Net Asset Value per share.

^CProspective dividend yield is indicative and based on mid market prices, and include the declared and net prospective dividends for the current financial year.

^DGearing represents the excess amount above shareholders' funds of total investments (excluding liquidity fund holdings) expressed as a percentage of the shareholders' funds. If the amount calculated is negative, this is known as a "net cash" position.

^EOngoing charges are the management fee and all other operating expenses, excluding interest charges on any borrowing and any performance fee payable expressed as a percentage of the average daily net assets during the year. All figures are for the previous financial year.
